SECTION 2: THE COURSE

A. Aims of the Course

- To provide a coherent but flexible two-year part-time or one-year full-time Master's programme for performers which will develop their musical and critical skills and knowledge to a level beyond that of first degree study.
- To stimulate an inquiring mind and encourage initiative, critical evaluation and independence of thought which will allow continued autonomous development of music expertise and knowledge beyond graduate studies.
- To develop a systematic understanding of relevant musical knowledge, and a critical awareness of contemporary issues which is at, or informed by, the forefront of the discipline of music scholarship and performance.
- To provide knowledge of research practices in music and to enable students to undertake a substantial performance recital which is informed by research and theoretical knowledge.
- To provide a postgraduate programme which can be taken by performers who specialise in a wide range of musical styles and genres, and to enable students both to deepen and to broaden their understanding of musical style.

B. Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme outcomes are referenced to the QAA subject benchmarks for Music (UG), the Master's Degree Characteristics (2020), the Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014). The programme learning outcomes will have been achieved by all students receiving this award. They must align to the levels set out in 'Sector Recognised Standards in England' (OFS 2022).

In addition to the programme learning outcomes, the programme of study will allow students to develop the following range of Graduate Attributes:

- Creative Problem Solving
- Digital Competency
- Enterprise
- Questioning Mindset
- Adaptability
- Empathy
- Collaboration
- Resilience
- Self-Awareness

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate skills, knowledge and understanding, as well as other attributes, in the following areas.

The programme learning outcomes are the high-level learning outcomes that will have been achieved by all students receiving this award. They must align to the levels set out in the 'Sector Recognised Standards in England' (OFS 2022).

Programme Learning Outcomes
	Knowledge and Understanding		Intellectual Skills		Subject Practical Skills
	On completion of the course students will be able to:		On completion of the course students will be able to		On completion of the course students will be able to
A1	demonstrate knowledge of a broad range of issues which underpin current research in music;	B1	handle complex issues both systematically and creatively, and communicate their findings clearly and succinctly both in writing and in performance;	C2	demonstrate a high level of presentational competence and organisation in their written work;
A2	demonstrate knowledge and understanding of issues of performance practice;	B2	demonstrate a high degree of critical awareness in relation to their own work and that of others;	C3	demonstrate high order technical, interpretive, and communication skills in music performance.

C. Outline Programme Structure

This programme is offered in full-time/part-time mode and leads to the award of MMus Music Performance.

E1. Professional and Statutory Regulatory Bodies
None

E2. Outline Programme Structure

The programme is made up of four modules each worth 30 credit points and the Major Project which is 60 credits. Part time students take 3x30 credit modules in Year 1 and 1x30 credit module and the Major Project (60 credits) in their second year. All students will be provided with the University regulations. Full details of each module will be provided in module descriptors and student module guides.

A comprehensive list of all possible options is provided here. The option list in any given year will be carefully constructed to ensure that the course curriculum is coherent, enabling students to achieve the programme learning outcomes via their chosen selection of modules.

D. Principles of Teaching, Learning and Assessment

The teaching and learning strategies are designed to facilitate the development of music performance skills through the study of performance practice, authenticity, contemporary performance, analysis of performance, the psychology of performance and individual instrumental tuition leading to the recitals to develop informed, skilled and insightful practitioners across a wide range of musical genres.

Students will also study a common core of Researching Music and select one optional module from a wide range of music topics and/or closely related subjects. The learning experience will culminate in a substantial research project in the form of a solo recital or conducted performance of 45 minutes with a related research paper. Tutor guidance will be provided to support module selection to ensure a balanced programme.

The philosophy of the learning and teaching strategy is based on the notion of the integration of theory and practice, with student participation central to course delivery. Students are encouraged to engage in debate and critique and to enhance their skills as independent learners through individual research and composition. The main foci of the teaching are on the student skill development of research, technique and interpretation, critical reflection and analysis, and performance presentation.

A variety of learning and teaching methods is central to the delivery of the MMus Music Performance at Kingston. Strategies include:

- Lecture;
- Seminar;
- Workshop and practical demonstration;
- Studio-based work;
- Professional recording session;
- Individual tutorial.

Keynote lectures will be used to introduce topics and to disseminate key information, both theoretical and practical. Performance workshops and individual instrumental tuition will be complemented by masterclasses led by performers from within the profession. These will be central to the delivery of the MMus Music Performance where first-hand engagement is critical. Students will be supported in the development of self- and peer-assessment skills through critiquing their own performances and those of others. This process has the added benefit of offering continual formative feedback.

Workshops and studio-based work will be central to the delivery of the optional modules focusing on performance, composition, and music technology, where hands-on experience is integral. These will be complemented by seminars and debates where students will be involved in the discussion and critique of controversial issues, enabling them to clarify their understanding and engage with the material. Students will also be encouraged to undertake informal presentations which will enhance communication, analysis and synthesis skills, and prepare them for assessment.

The performance based Major Project enables the student to plan, prepare and present a 45-minute recital with a written complementary commentary and critical analysis.

Students are expected to take responsibility for their own learning in terms of background research, practical preparation, and to work independently and self critically. Students are allocated both a performance tutor and a specialist supervisor, who will support them in the development of their project. Individual tutorials will provide advice, for example, on critical self-evaluation of performance and developing their written submission.

In addition to face-to-face contact between students and teaching staff, a virtual learning environment (Canvas) will provide students with access to a range of materials for each module. These materials will typically include the module guide, lecture slides and handouts, audio-visual material and links to useful web-resources. Use of the collaborative tools offered by Canvas (e.g. discussion boards, blogs, wikis etc) will be encouraged to facilitate team-working and interactive problem-solving skills, to prepare for and follow up taught sessions and to prepare for assessment for Colloquia where online interaction with staff and other students will be an integral part of the assessment strategy. Canvas can be used from any networked personal computer in the University as well as from most personal computers connected to the Internet.

Assessment

The assessment strategies address the key aims of the programme: to develop students' musical and critical skills and knowledge, to stimulate an inquiring mind and encourage initiative, creativity, critical evaluation and independence of thought, to develop a systematic understanding of relevant musical knowledge, and a critical awareness of contemporary issues in music, to provide knowledge of research practices in music and to enable students to undertake a substantial individual research project. The strategies are also designed to facilitate the acquisition of transferable skills that will enhance the students' employability in a range of sectors, and to enable students to proceed to research degrees.

Assessment is by coursework. A wide variety of summative assessment strategies will be used which have been selected to match the diversity of the learning outcomes to be tested and the nature of the work to be assessed. The tasks have been designed to offer a set of stimulating challenges, many of which reflect demands likely to be imposed on students in the workplace. Alongside the summative assessment there will be many opportunities for students to receive formative feedback from their tutors through seminar discussions, informal presentations, composition, performance and studio-based workshops and group and one-to-one tutorials. Students will be provided with formative assessment opportunities throughout the course to practise and develop their proficiency in the range of assessment methods utilised.

In summary, the nature of the assessment of the course will utilise a combination of:

- Annotated bibliography;
- Academic debate
- Critique /Critical review;
- Essay;
- Performance;
- Portfolio of Compositions / Recordings;
- Position paper;
- Practical project: planning, implementation and evaluation;
- Live and pre-recorded Presentations;
- Recording Project (proposal, documentation and recordings);
- Research paper.

Written and oral presentations are central to the assessment strategy. Through these modes of assessment students demonstrate the ability to undertake independent reading and research, to analyse, critique, challenge and synthesise ideas, to offer a personal viewpoint and to communicate with competence and clarity to the audience.

Practical formative and summative assessments take the form of a public solo or ensemble performance/direction in a variety of locations relevant to the nature of music to be assessed e.g. public recital, lunchtime concert, simulated rehearsal, or 'gig' (for popular music performance). Students are required to demonstrate technical competence, musicality, stagecraft, and ensemble skills (where relevant), and in many cases to write a critical reflection on their performance.

The MMus in Music Performance culminates in a 45-minute recital with written complementary commentary and critical analysis. This enables the student to undertake the programming, preparation, and professional presentation of the project involving a high level of individual practice and critical reflection by the student.

E. Support for Students and their Learning

Students will be introduced to the nature of teaching and learning as part of the induction process and are supported by:

- A Module Leader for each module
- A Course Leader to help students understand the programme structure
- Personal Tutors to provide academic and personal support
- Pre-sessional and year-long English language development programme
- Bespoke language and academic writing support for core music research and music education modules
- One-to-one writing support
- A placement tutor to give general advice on placements
- Technical support to advise students on IT and the technical operation of the studios and to advise and support them in the creation of curricular and extra-curricular studio projects
- A designated Course Administrator
- An induction week at the beginning of each new academic session
- Staff Student Consultative Committee
- Canvas – a versatile online interactive intranet and learning environment accessible both on and off-site
- LinkedIn Learning and Skills For Study – online platforms offering self-paced software tutorials
- A substantial Academic Success Centre that provides academic skills support for both UG and PG students
- Student support facilities that provide advice on issues such as finance, regulations, legal matters, accommodation, international student support etc.
- A Student Achievement Officer who provides pastoral support
- Disability and Mental Health support
- The Union of Kingston Students
- Careers and Employability Services Team
- Faculty-aligned Careers Advisers who run workshops, weekly drop-ins and 1:1 appointments

F. Ensuring and Enhancing the Quality of the Course

The University has several methods for evaluating and improving the quality and standards of its provision. These include:

- External Examiners
- Student Voice Committee
- Student representation at the Course, School and Faculty levels
- School Education Committee with student representation
- Annual Monitoring and Enhancement
- Student evaluation including Early Module Reviews and MEQs (Module Evaluation Questionnaires) for each module and a PTES (Postgraduate Taught Experience Survey)
- Moderation policies
- Feedback from employers

G. Employability and work-based learning

A high proportion of MMus Music Performance students obtain employment on graduation in the music profession, teaching, subjects allied to music or enrol for further study e.g. PGCE, MPhil, or Ph.D. either at home or abroad. For those students who are already in employment and are undertaking the MMus Music Performance in a part-time mode, the award may accelerate promotion and open new opportunities.

The particular nature of Postgraduate study in Music at Kingston, combining theoretical knowledge and practical skills, offers a broad musical curriculum, equips graduates for a broad range of careers which have included music and arts administration, the music business, school, higher education and instrumental teaching, outreach work and educational workshops, music composition, arranging, professional performance, conducting and music publishing. The high level of research and transferable skills that students acquire during their studies also makes available to them careers in both the commercial and business environment.
